In NYC, a Tough Rule For Many to Swallow

City board limits sales of most sugary drinks to 16 ounces

New York

New York City cracked down on supersized sodas and other sugary drinks Thursday in what was celebrated by some as a groundbreaking attempt to curb obesity but condemned by others as a blatant intrusion into people's lives by a busybody mayor.

Experts around the nation — and the restaurant and soft-drink industry — will be watching closely to see how it goes over among New Yorkers, a famously disputatious bunch. Barring any court action, it will take effect in March.

The regulations, approved easily by the city Board of Health, bar establishments with a food-service license from serving sugary beverages larger than 16 ounces.

Mayor Michael Bloomberg rejected the idea that it constitutes an assault on personal liberty.

"Nobody is banning anything," he said, noting that customers can still buy as much soda as they want, as long as they are willing to carry it in multiple containers.

Fighting Words

"NYC's new sugary drink policy is the single biggest step any gov't has taken to curb #obesity. It will help save lives."

—@MIKEBLOOMBERG, THE MAYOR OF NEW YORK CITY

"It's a slippery slope. When does it stop? What comes next? This is my life. I should be able to do what I want."

—SEBASTIAN LOPEZ, A COLLEGE STUDENT FROM QUEENS, PROTESTING NYC'S MOVE TO CURB SUGARY DRINKS

Manhattan pizza shop owner Vinnie Siena said halting sales of large sodas will hurt his already thin profit margin, unless he raises prices. "I'm having a tough time as it is. They don't want the little guy to survive, it seems," he said.

A New York Times poll last month showed that 6 in 10 New Yorkers opposed the ban.

Some health experts said it isn't clear whether the ban will have any effect on obesity. But they said it might help usher in a change in attitude toward over-eating, in the same way that many Americans have come to regard smoking as inconsiderate.

The regulations follow other ambitious health moves on Bloomberg's watch, some of which have proved to be trendsetters, such as making chain restaurants post calories on their menus. The city has also barred artificial trans fats in restaurant food. DAVID B. CARUSO AND

JENNIFER PELTZ (AP)

Count Them In: McDonald's said Wednesday it would start displaying calorie counts on menus nationwide next week, before a federal mandate that could force major chains to do so. Some cities, such as New York and Philadelphia, already required such displays. McDonald's is also testing healthier options, such as an Egg McMuffin with egg whites. (AP)

Backstory

New York Mayor

Michael Bloomberg and advocates of the city's new 16-ounce limit on sugar-laden beverages say the proposal strikes at a leading cause of obesity simply by giving people a built-in reason to stop at 16 ounces: 200 calories, if it's a regular Coke, compared to 240 in a 20-ounce size. For someone who drinks a soda a day, the difference amounts to 14,600 calories a year, or the equivalent of 70 Hershey bars, enough to add about 4 pounds of fat to a person's body. The rule wouldn't apply to lower-calorie drinks, such as water or diet soda, or to alcoholic beverages or drinks that are more than half milk or 70 percent unsweetened juice. (AP)

Fed Unveils Bold Plan To Aid U.S. Recovery

Washington

The Federal Reserve unleashed a series of bold and open-ended steps Thursday designed to stimulate the economy by boosting the stock market and making it cheaper for people to borrow and spend.

The Fed said it will spend $40 billion a month to buy mortgage bonds for as long as it deems necessary to make home-buying more affordable. It plans to keep short-term interest rates at record lows through mid-2015 — six months longer than previously planned. And it's ready to try other stimulative measures if hiring doesn't pick up.

"The idea is to quicken the recovery," chairman Ben Bernanke said.

Thursday's announcement marked the Fed's latest dramatic intervention since the financial crisis erupted in 2008.

Yet the U.S. economy is still struggling. The unemployment rate is 8.1 percent. And the Fed estimated Thursday that the rate will fall no lower than 7.6 percent in 2013. (AP)

Romney Refocuses in Va.

GOP hopeful reverts to jobs after hitting Obama on diplomacy

Fairfax

Facing criticism, Republican White House nominee Mitt Romney on Thursday muted his barbed attacks against President Barack Obama's handling of a diplomatic crisis and tried to refocus the campaign on the economy.

The GOP challenger delivered a spirited speech and television ad accusing the president of failing American workers. But he did not repeat his assertions that Obama apologized for American values in response to Mideast protests that resulted in the death of an American ambassador in Libya.

Romney only briefly mentioned the crisis in his speech in Virginia,

Anti-American Protests Spread

U.S. facilities face more foreign attacks over anti-Islam film

Cairo

Protests inspired by an anti-Islam film targeted more U.S. facilities in the Muslim world Thursday, raising questions about whether governments had the will or even the ability to protect Americans abroad from angry demonstrators.

Two days after the deaths of the U.S. ambassador to Libya and three other American diplomatic employees in Benghazi, Libya, the U.S. Embassy in Sanaa, Yemen, was assaulted by protesters as Yemeni security personnel did little to intervene, witnesses said. In Cairo, clouds of tear gas enveloped the fortified area around the U.S. Embassy as security forces clashed with protesters for the third-straight day. Other anti-U.S. protests were reported in cities across the region.

On Tuesday, the day of the killings, demonstrators in Cairo breached the walls of the U.S. Embassy compound, pulled down an American flag and destroyed it.

On Thursday, after days of relative silence, Egyptian President Mohamed Morsi condemned the

Fury in Yemen

Protesters in Sanaa, Yemen, stormed a wall, set fire to a building inside the compound, broke windows and carried away office supplies before being dispersed by Yemeni forces. “We cannot accept any insult to our prophet,” said Abdelwadood al-Mutawa, a demonstrator. He said he was motivated by reports of the movie mocking the Prophet Muhammad. “It’s a red line.” (TWP)

Flashpoint Film

The anti-U.S. violence in the Middle East comes as outrage grows over a movie called “Innocence of Muslims” that mocked Islam’s Prophet Muhammad. Officials on Thursday identified Nakoula Basseley Nakoula, 55, of California, once convicted of financial crimes, as the key figure behind the film. But a Libyan official said Tuesday’s attack on the U.S. Consulate there was suspected to have been timed to coincide with the 11th anniversary of the Sept. 11 terror attacks. (AP) attacks on the embassy in Cairo and vowed to defend the security of U.S. diplomatic buildings even as his Muslim Brotherhood movement and other groups were calling for major, peaceful protests against the U.S. on Friday, the traditional day of prayer — and protest — in the Muslim world.

But Morsi also denounced the film and called on “the American people” to “declare their rejection” of such provocations.

Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton took strong steps Thursday to distance the U.S. government from the movie, calling the film “disgusting and reprehensible” but also condemning the violence in response to it.

In Sanaa, hundreds of demonstrators converged Thursday on a usually sealed-off street in front of the U.S. Embassy for a protest that turned violent, witnesses said.

In Washington, State Department spokeswoman Victoria Nuland said all U.S. personnel were “safe and accounted for” and that Yemeni forces were “in the process of restoring order” at the scene.

Smaller protests were reported in Iran and Bangladesh.

U.N. Envoy: Syrian Crisis Worsens

Beirut

The diplomat tasked with ending Syria's civil war said Thursday that the conflict is worsening. It was his first visit to the country since taking up a job he has called "nearly impossible."

Lakhdar Brahimi, the U.N.-Arab League envoy, was expected to meet Syrian President Bashar Assad on Friday. He also was to meet members of the Syrian opposition.

"There is a crisis in Syria, and I believe it is getting worse," Brahimi said on arrival in Damascus.

in August after his efforts failed to stem a conflict that started in March 2011.

Activists estimate 23,000 people have been killed.

The violence has left the Assad regime isolated internationally, though Iran, China and Russia support it. Brahimi met Mohammad Riza Shibani, the Iranian ambassador to Syria, on Thursday — a meeting the ambassador described as "good and fruitful."

He also met Syrian Foreign Minister Walid al-Moallem, who said any initiative should "focus on the Syrian people's interest," state-run media reported. (AP)

Japan Looks to End Its Nuke Power

Tokyo

Japan is planning a move to shutter all nuclear plants by the 2030s, Japanese media reported Thursday, a major policy shift for a resource-poor nation that once depended on atomic power for a third of its energy.

The nuclear phaseout, reported by both the Kyodo News agency and broadcaster NHK based on a draft of the policy, comes amid fierce political debate about this country's 50 operable reactors, which are both prone to disaster and vital to the economy.

The shift from nuclear power over the next two decades represents a major concession from Japan's traditionally pro-nuclear leaders to a largely anti-nuclear public, whose fears were stoked by the March 2011 meltdown at Fukushima Daiichi.

But it also prompts new worries about how Japan will make up for a gaping energy deficit.

Decision Time

It's hard not to think of my daily commute as a "Choose Your Own Adventure" book. Do I want to take the Metro and risk Red Line crowding and craziness? Or, do I want to take the bus and risk an epic wait and downtown traffic? Usually, I decide to forget both options and just walk. It takes longer, but at least I know how the story ends.

You can probably guess what happens in the new YouTube series "Choose Your Commuting Adventure," produced by Arlington Transportation Partners. The videos — inspired by the books and the movie "Clue" (although, tragically, Tim Curry is nowhere to be seen) — show a group of ladies hanging out in an office discussing how one of them should get to work while her car is in the shop.

In part one, she decides to rely on transit, saves lots of money and is happy. In part two, she starts riding her bike, saves lots of money and is happy. Part three is walking and part four is carpooling, and in both — spoiler alert — she ends up saving lots of money and being happy.

If only every choice commuters made led to such wonderful outcomes! In some cases, there are people who could radically improve their lives by rethinking the way they get to work. But the fact is that there are hassles in all kinds of transportation, whether you're behind the wheel or being taken for a ride. And, typically, you're picking between less-than-perfect options and settling on the one you can live with.

By Vicky Hallett*Walking to work takes longer, but at least I know how the story ends.

For lots of folks who decide to take Metro, that's the reality. So I can understand why people got peeved this week at news that Metro wound up with a $28 million surplus for the past fiscal year at the same time riders were forced to shoulder a substantial fare hike.

Although the surplus money is pretty much guaranteed to go toward reducing how much WMATA asks for in funding, Twitter and blogs buzzed with other ideas: additional late-night service, escalator repairs, free transfers between buses and trains. My vote? Bouncers to regulate bad behavior, so everyone has a more pleasant trip.

But that's not my choice to make.

Express Buses to Tysons OK'd by FairfaxFairfax

The Fairfax County Board of Supervisors approved a plan Tuesday to provide express bus service that will travel to Tysons Corner using the 495 Express Lanes.

The first route will begin service in January, and the other two will follow in March.

The three routes are expected to run every 15 minutes during rush hour, in addition to making two trips in the middle of the day. One-way fares are expected to cost between $3.65 and $5.35. The final fares, routes and schedules will be decided later this fall.

Buses will travel to Tysons from Burke Centre and Lorton's Virginia Railway Express stations as well as from the Springfield area. These buses will stop at Silver Line stations in Tysons when they open, in addition to stopping at some major offices in Tysons. MARK BERMAN

D.C. Tops U.S. in 'Brewery Density'

Study shows city has most per square mile, even with only 3 total

Washington

Three years ago, the District of Columbia had no breweries. Now it leads the country in "brewery density."

This statistic comes courtesy of Philadelphia Daily News beer reporter Joe Sixpack — yep — who ranked states by brewery density, or the number of breweries per square mile. At the top of his chart is the District.

(His findings also show that

DC Brau is one of three breweries in D.C. The others: Chocolate City and 3 Stars.

every one of the 25 most densely brewed states voted for Barack Obama in 2008.)

Now, a caveat or seven: There

22.8

The number of square miles per brewery in D.C., the highest density in the U.S. Delaware, according to Philly.com, has one per 226.5.

are only three D.C. breweries — DC Brau, Chocolate City and 3 Stars — carrying manufacturer licenses from District liquor regulators, but Mr. Sixpack's math is based on the city having four breweries. (Perhaps the White House kitchen?)

However, even after subtracting the mystery fourth brewery, D.C.'s doing great: We have one brewery per 22.8 square miles; No. 2 Delaware has one brewery per 226.5 square miles.

Note that the usual caveat about comparing the District to larger, less densely populated states also applies. In fact, having only one brewery for the city's 68.3 square miles would still put us on top.

Also note that if brewery density were calculated some other way — breweries per capita, or barrels of beer produced per capita, or barrels per square mile — the rankings would probably turn out a lot differently.

Regardless, the revival of brewing inside the city limits is something we all can toast.

Robert Griffin III, whom the Redskins acquired after a trade with the Rams, makes his second NFL start Sunday in St. Louis.

Forever Linked

After trade with the Rams, Redskins got their franchise QB

The Redskins

Aside from playing each other seemingly every year, including this Sunday in St. Louis, the Redskins and the Rams have had little in common.

The teams' blockbuster trade that resulted in Washington earning the No. 2 pick in this year's draft and the opportunity to select quarterback Robert Griffin III, however, has now inexorably linked the two franchises.

Redskins fans are thrilled Griffin looks like the franchise QB the team has been searching for, while the Rams may be thinking they got shortchanged as they muddle through what will likely be another losing season.

Redskins coach Mike Shanahan and Rams coach Jeff Fisher have a long relationship, dating back to their days with the 49ers, which may have greased the wheels for the deal.

"We had one of those relationships where he had a chance to talk, but this is a business," Shanahan said. "They are going to go with the best offer, but we had a chance to communicate and make them the best offer."

After Griffin's sublime performance in his NFL debut against New Orleans earned him NFC Offensive Player of the Week honors, pundits and fans were ready to crown the young quarterback as the next big thing. Griffin is taking

3 Things to Watch

1. Show Me State: The offense looked fantastic last week, but can RGIII, Alfred Morris and Co. keep it up? The Rams have historically given Washington trouble.

2. It's a Snap: The loss of long-snapper Nick Sundberg to a broken arm puts the spotlight on an overlooked aspect of the game. Newly signed Justin Snow's job is to prevent any miscues in the kicking game.

3. Push It: The defensive front seven got great push on New Orleans' line last week, and shutting down St. Louis' ground game will put the onus on Sam Bradford to have a big game. E.S.

a more measured approach.

"I don't think it's just about me, and I said it when I got drafted," he said. "I'm very excited about this team and what this team has to offer. Our defense played well. The offense came together. Everybody knows if they take care of their assignments that we can win, and we've got the talent to do it."

Meanwhile, the Rams are bereft in that category, although the two first-round picks they received from Washington will go a long way in helping that. The question in St. Louis remains whether Sam Bradford can develop into an elite signal-caller, or if the Rams should have kept their pick and gone the RGIII route.

"Sam's got a good grasp on this offense," Fisher said. "He won't say this, but he's looking forward to the future as we continue to put better people around him."

Could this be a situation where both teams come out ahead? The Redskins are certainly pleased with the results so far. "We have a guy that everybody believes in," Shanahan said. "I believe in him."

Award-Worthy Performances

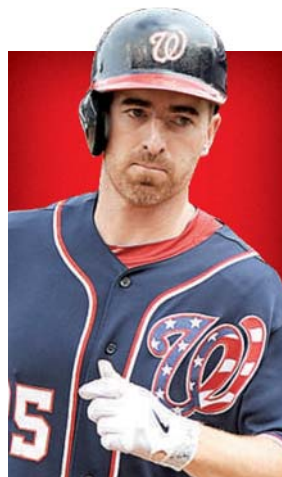

Earlier this week after Nationals left-hander Gio Gonzalez recorded his league-leading 19th victory, the talk in the postgame news conference turned to his Cy Young candidacy. Statistically, he is the best pitcher on the best team in baseball. Then, unsolicited, manager Davey Johnson threw something else out there: First baseman Adam LaRoche could be the National League's most valuable player. Indeed, LaRoche has been the glue holding together a batting order in which several key parts have missed extended time. As the Nationals enter this weekend's series in Atlanta — where, on ESPN's Sunday Night Baseball, Gonzalez can earn his 20th victory — with a comfortable 8½-game lead over the Braves in the National League East, let's take a moment to examine who deserves consideration for postseason awards. DEREK TURNER (FOR EXPRESS)

Cy Young

With Stephen Strasburg shut down and Jordan Zimmermann struggling a bit lately, Gio Gonzalez, above, is Washington's best chance for its first Cy Young winner. The club gave up four top prospects to acquire him in the offseason, but the rewards have been great: His 19-7 record and 2.93 ERA have helped the team compile the best record in baseball. If he can finish with a 20-win season, he'll have a great shot at collecting the hardware.

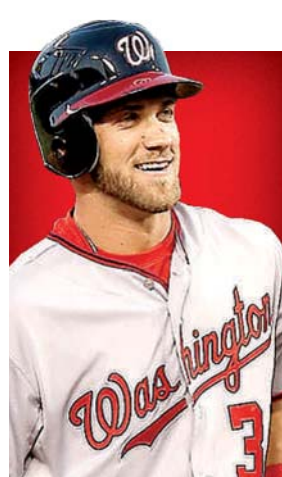

Top competition: R.A. Dickey, Mets (18-5, 2.68 ERA); Johnny Cueto, Reds (17-8, 2.71 ERA)

MVP

Despite Davey Johnson's advocacy, Adam LaRoche, above, remains a long shot. Though he ranks in the top 10 in the NL in both homers (29) and RBI (92), his candidacy would have to be boosted by his many contributions that aren't as easily measured — defense, leadership, etc. Some have also thrown Washington's Ian Desmond into the MVP mix, and while he has been the best shortstop in the league, his numbers fall short of MVP.

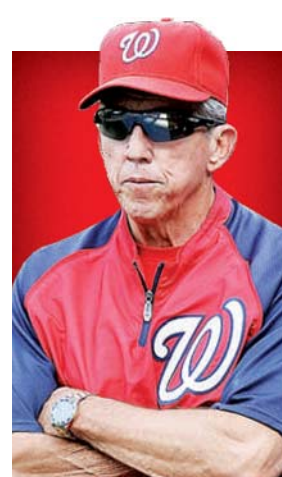

Top competition: Ryan Braun, Brewers (.310 average, 38 home runs, 100 RBI); Andrew McCutchen, Pirates (.340, 26, 85); Buster Posey, Giants (.333, 21, 89)

Rookie Of the Year

Bryce Harper's post-All-Star-break slump seemed to have cost him his shot at this award, but his recent resurgence has reinserted him into the conversation. Each night, it seems Harper, 19, compiles a stat that ranks him among the best teens ever to play the game, but his biggest competition is 26-year-old Todd Frazier of Cincinnati. With a few weeks to go, Harper is hitting .262 with 18 home runs and 49 RBI.

Top competition: Todd Frazier, Reds (.283, 18, 62); Wilin Rosario, Rockies (.255, 24, 62); Wade Miley, Diamondbacks (15-9, 3.07)

Manager Of the Year

After Davey Johnson arrived to skipper the team midway through 2011, it finished 80-81 thanks to a late-season tear. In 2012, the Nationals are within striking distance of 100 wins, boasting the best record in baseball, both of which make Johnson the favorite to be named the league's top manager. Worth noting: Johnson's status for next season is uncertain. The last time he was named manager of the year — in 1997 with Baltimore — he resigned the same day amid a feud with owner Peter Angelos.

Top competition: Dusty Baker, Reds; Clint Hurdle, Pirates

Silver Slugger

Ian Desmond (.295, 23 homers and 67 RBI), above, should be a lock for this award, given to the top hitter at each position.

Top competition: Jimmy Rollins, Phillies (.249, 19, 60 entering Thursday's action)

With Albert Pujols and Prince Fielder in the AL, LaRoche (.269, 29, 92) has a good chance.

Top competition: Freddie Freeman, Braves (.264, 19, 85)

Ryan Zimmerman (.287, 22, 84) needs a hot streak for the title.

Top competition: Chase Headley, Padres (.282, 27, 102); Aramis Ramirez, Brewers (.297, 23, 91)

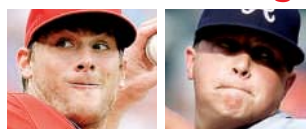

Gold Glove

Defensive prowess isn't as easily quantified by statistics, but LaRoche, Desmond and second baseman Danny Espinosa all rank among the best in the league at their positions. Third baseman Ryan Zimmerman, above, perhaps the most skilled defender at his position, likely will be undone by his high number of throwing errors.

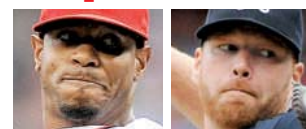

11

The Nationals' magic number to clinch the NL East title heading into this weekend's series. Their magic number to ensure at least a wild-card spot is 5 as of Thursday afternoon.

Weekend Pitching Matchups

Fri. Ross Detwiler (9-6, 3.23 ERA) vs. Kris Medlen (8-1, 1.64 ERA)

Sat. Edwin Jackson (9-10, 3.85 ERA) vs. Tommy Hanson (12-8, 4.35 ERA)

Sun. Gio Gonzalez (19-7, 2.93 ERA) vs. Mike Minor (8-10, 4.42 ERA)

De Rosario Out for the Season

D.C. United captain tore MCL playing for Canada on Tuesday

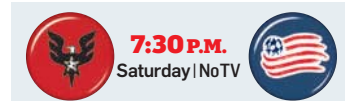

Major League Soccer

D.C. United's quest to make the MLS postseason for the first time since 2007 got a lot trickier Thursday.

United captain and reigning league MVP Dwayne De Rosario was ruled out for 10 to 12 weeks after sustaining an MCL sprain while on international duty for Canada on Tuesday, effectively ruling him out for the season. The injury will not require surgery.

Dwayne De Rosario celebrates after scoring against the Chicago Fire on Aug. 22. His seven goals rank second on D.C. United.

De Rosario's seven goals rank second on the team, and his 12 assists are tops for D.C. and tied for second-most in MLS. After signing a new deal with the club in February, De Rosario proved just as valuable to D.C. this season as he did after joining the club last year. He had just crossed the 100-goal barrier to join exclusive MLS company and is the centerpiece to D.C.'s attack.

"You don't replace a guy like this," said D.C. coach Ben Olsen, whose team faces the New England

Olsen to Be Honored

D.C. United coach Ben Olsen's place among the club's greats will be further entrenched Saturday night.

Olsen will be inducted into the club's Hall of Tradition at a ceremony when D.C. hosts the New England Revolution. Olsen, who starred for D.C. from 1998 to 2009 and won two MLS Cups, joins former D.C. players John Harkes, Marco Etcheverry, Jeff Agoos, Raul Diaz Arce, Eddie Pope and Richie Williams as fan-selected inductees. A.C.

Revolution on Saturday. "What changes is you don't have a guy out there that can do really special things at any given moment, but I'm looking for some other guys to raise their game a little bit."

The injury, sustained in the opening minutes of Canada's 2-0 loss to Panama, came a year after D.C. lost Chris Pontius for the rest of the 2011 season to a broken leg during a game at Chivas USA. D.C., which was fighting for a playoff berth then, now faces the same challenge of overcoming a devastating personnel loss.

"We're a different team than last year," Pontius said. "A more mature team [that] obviously added some pieces. We're more equipped to handle the situation."

For D.C., which has seven matches remaining, the onus falls on the likes of Branko Boskovic to take a bigger playmaking role in the midfield, while Pontius, rookie Nick DeLeon and underachieving designated player Hamdi Salhi must harness their goal-scoring abilities.

"It's a chance for other people to step up, and that's what we need to do," Pontius said. "I'm a firm believer that the depth of the team is going to take our team deep into the playoffs. Hopefully we can show that."

He thanked everyone associated with the Huskies program — administrators, players, fans and his family — for his team's success and played down both his health problems and troubles with the NCAA.

PUBLIC MEETING

Virginia Avenue Tunnel Environmental Impact Statement w& Section 106 Evaluation

CSX Transportation, Inc. (CSXT) has requested the District Department of Transportation (DDOT) to consider permits allowing CSXT the temporary usage of air rights in the vicinity of the Interstate 695/11th Street Bridges and for the potential temporary closure of the Southeast Freeway/I-695 ramp on 8th Street, SE. These actions would facilitate construction associated with the Virginia Avenue Tunnel. This request requires oversight and approval by the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA). DDOT and FHWA are developing an Environmental Impact Statement (EIS) to assess the impacts of the proposed CSXT Virginia Avenue Tunnel project to comply with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). Effects to the historic resources from this project will also be assessed in compliance with the Section 106 of the National Historic Preservation Act.

A public meeting will be held for this project on:

Terps Face UConn in 'Edsall Bowl'

Terps Football

Randy Edsall's past and present collide Saturday in College Park, and the outcome will have something to say about his future.

Maryland and Connecticut will play each other for the first time since 1942, and at the moment, Edsall isn't a particularly popular person in either state. Not in Connecticut, where folks disapproved of the way he left after guiding the team to a Big East championship in 2010. And not in Maryland, where he led the Terrapins to a 2-10 record in his first campaign.

It's the "Randy Bowl," the "Edsall Bowl" or any one of a hand-

Backstory

Randy Edsall came to Maryland calling it his "dream job" and noting that although he grew up in southern Pennsylvania, he considers the Terps his hometown team. The community has not yet embraced him. Many fans and media called for his dismissal after Maryland ended last season on a seven-game losing streak and a slew of key players transferred. A win Saturday would help his standing, even if this season still promises to be a trying one. D.T.

ful of monikers this matchup has been given in recent days. Fairly or unfairly, it will be viewed as a referendum on the coach's decision to come to Maryland and the job he's done since arriving.

The game was already scheduled before Edsall took the position, and he has done his best to downplay its significance. "This week is really no different to me than any other week," Edsall said. "It's game three on our schedule."

The Terrapins enter the game having won their first two, a nail-biter over William & Mary and a more impressive but still close win over Temple that made room for the first hints of optimism surrounding the program since last September.

The Huskies, who finished 5-7 in their first season under coach Paul Pasqualoni, are 1-1.

After last week's 10-7 loss to North Carolina State, defensive tackle Ryan Wirth let slip that players have been looking forward to facing Edsall, who caught grief in Storrs not only for leaving but for failing to tell his players in person of the decision. "It's not going to be hard to get fired up for that one, definitely," Wirth said.

This week, though, Pasqualoni and UConn have been careful to avoid anything close to a controversial statement. "Coach Edsall's not playing in this game, and there aren't any coaches on the field," Pasqualoni said. "We're just going to get ready to play the game and not be distracted by anything else."

Buying Into New Conference Names

Even before Notre Dame announced it was switching to the ACC, college conferences already deserved a failing grade in geography (ahem, Big East) and math (we're looking at you, Big 10).

While the ship has sailed on reverting to the old way of doing things,

By Matt Swenson

the least that can be done is changing the leagues' names. And given that money is the real motivating factor, here are some suggestions incorporating corporate sponsors:

► Big Skype: For the Big East, so the calls between Georgetown and San Diego State can be more enjoyable.

The Big 10, between Penn State and Ohio State, can always use a good lawyer.

► Match.com Conference: This suits the ACC, which courts so well that no fewer than six schools, including Notre Dame, have agreed to join it since 2004.

► Cracker Barrel Conference: Perfect for the SEC, home to great chicken, biscuits and mac and cheese. And with barrel in the title, "Roll Tide" works better than ever.

► Texas Instruments Conference: The Big 12 might as well be called this already, since the league's remaining schools do whatever the University of Texas — which rakes in millions with its own cable network — says.

► The LSAT: For the Big 10, which between Penn State and Ohio State, can always use a good lawyer. At least it promotes higher education.

► Western Union: This will help USC, Oregon and other Pac 12 teams funnel money to recruits. And it avoids the whole numbers issue!

JETS (PLUS 5.5) AT STEELERS

BRONCOS (PLUS 3) AT FALCONS

FALCONS

I'm hoping the SI jinx doesn't hit the Redskins but am indifferent about Denver.

RAMS

When it comes to being winless and beating the Redskins, the Rams are 2 for 3 in three years.

49ERS

The Madden curse rears its ugly head again as Megatron is hobbled for this game.

RAVENS

Forget Vick. The injury to Maclin is probably going to be the biggest hurdle for the Eagles.

JETS

The Steelers defense loses a lot of swagger without Harrison, but Ryan Clark will help.

BRONCOS

I'm fairly certain that Broncos are unstoppable as long as Manning is standing upright.

REDSKINS

The waiting list for the bandwagon is longer than the imaginary list for season tickets.

49ERS

Jim Harbaugh keeps his pimp hand strong.

RAVENS

New trend: "Vicking." Holding your ribs while your opponent takes an INT in for a TD.

STEELERS

Rams fans do not seem energized by injured first-round draft pick Michael Brockers.

49ERS

Skip the game; I'd be happy to watch three hours of post-game handshakes and spittle.

RAVENS

Forget the Orioles-Nats World Series; bring on the Ravens-Redskins Super Bowl.

STEELERS

Can't Byron Leftwich and Tim Tebow arm wrestle in the parking lot or something?

FALCONS

A wing gets them 22 percent of the way toward their Vegas over-under of nine wins.

Judith Barrow made her rental greener by taking simple steps, including fixing her drafty windows, which allowed her to turn down the heat and air conditioning.

Renters Also Can Go Green

Small fixes can make an apartment earth-friendly and save you money, too

Environment

Judith Barrow knows green. Barrow, 33, is writing the Washington Sierra Club's guide for sustainable living, which offers tips for saving energy and reducing your home's carbon footprint.

But even Barrow wasn't sure about the energy efficiency of her own apartment. So last February, she invited Washington's Department of the Environment (Green .dc.gov) to do a free audit on her U Street townhouse.

"They look at different parts of your house and tell you simple things you can do in your kitchen, your living room, to make them greener," she says. "We went through the house segment by segment to see what could be done."

Barrow appreciated the professional help.

Green Rentals

"It's more challenging for apartment renters," says Sacha Cohen, who used to blog about green living in the District. "You can't do as much to change your space."

Renters often can't make big changes that owners can, such as switching out appliances or re-insulating the walls. Every landlord has different restrictions, but there are simple fixes that even renters can make.

Based on recommendations from the audit of her three-bedroom apartment, Barrow began doing some of those simple things. She started keeping her refrigerator and freezer a bit warmer (the EPA recommends 37 degrees for your fridge and 3 degrees for freezers). She also filled in any draft in the windows around her home to keep the heat and air conditioning in.

If you're a single person who shares an apartment with a couple, is three a crowd? In next week's Ready to Rent, we'll look at the perks and pitfalls.

"I'm always trying to find ways to keep down costs and reduce my energy consumption," she says. And the changes paid off, lowering her monthly energy bills by about $40, she says.

Another simple fix for the environmentally minded renter: Buy plants. Indoor houseplants naturally improve an apartment's air quality. Larger leafy bushes can also be placed in front of windows to block out sunlight, keeping your space cooler in the summer.

There are lots of easy ways to keep your home insulated to reduce energy

A Green Apartment Hunt

Many local apartment buildings bill themselves as energy efficient. But not all "green" buildings are created equal. Here's what to ask about when you're looking for a low-impact place:

► LEED Standards: Many new buildings brag about earning a LEED certification. (It stands for Leadership in Energy and Environmental Design, in case you were wondering.) The U.S. Green Building Council gives LEED ratings to buildings that meet certain environmental goals. But LEED is a point system, which means some buildings have higher ratings than others. A building can make the grade simply because of its location (public transit accessibility earns you points) or innovative design. Before you sign a lease, ask about the specifics of the certification: Was the building designed to use less energy and water? Did builders use green and recycled materials? These are indications that your apartment is low impact.

► Energy Star Appliances and Windows: Ask whether the refrigerator, dishwasher and windows in your potential new home have received an energy star rating. If so, they are designed to use energy more efficiently.

use — with the added bonus of lowering utility bills. Cohen recommends keeping blinds closed in the summer and buying rugs or other insulators to protect against winter drafts.

If you're more worried about wasting food than wasting energy, consider composting. It isn't impossible, even in a tiny apartment.

Urbanites without a yard or garden can consider Compost Cab (Compostcab.com), a weekly service that picks up your food scraps from your home and uses them to make compost for non-profit farmers. The service costs about $8 a week, and they provide a bin for you to fill up between pickups.

For Sahiba Chopra, 23, greener living was as easy as changing what she bought at the store.

"I started using products that are more organic," says Chopra, who lives in a three-bedroom apartment in Bethesda. There are a variety of organic household cleaners that keep harmful chemicals out of your house — and out of the environment. Keep an eye out for Mrs. Meyers or Nellie's Organic products, and look for biodegradable trash bags.

In addition to buying green products, try to create less waste by buying fewer products. And when you're looking for something new, check out Freecycle (Freecycle.org) or Craigslist (Craigslist.org) for gently used products.

Energy efficient lights (such as LED or CFL lights) are another way to cut down on how much you buy. They last longer, meaning you can buy fewer.

"I always look for ways to save money, so I got energy [efficient] lights and things like that," Chopra says.

Barrows and Chopra have teamed up to help other Washington-area renters. "We've come up with creative ways to help D.C. residents be more aware of their energy uses," Chopra says. They put together an energy efficiency starter kit, which will be distributed at Sierra Club meetings.

Energy-efficient light bulbs, such as the compact fluorescent bulb, above, save energy and last longer than other bulbs.

You don't have to wait for the kit. Clever ideas for greening your apartment are hidden right at the hardware store.

Anne Stom, who owns Annie's Ace Hardware in Petworth, says her favorite green purchase is a Sodastream (it's about $75), which carbonates water or other juices at home and cuts down on plastic bottles.

"I've seen the benefit at the front end, not lugging all the bottles in the house," she says. "But I also see it when I take out our recycling."

Stom says she's seen a growing interest in her green products from D.C.-area residents. "Many young people have children, they have pets, they want safer stuff," she says. "The people who live here are good stewards of the world."

AMANDA ERICKSON (FOR EXPRESS)

Fort Totten

4BR: 5288 Chillum Place NE

$2,200

This no-frills, four-bedroom house is a roomy 1,400 square feet with a renovated kitchen. The combo living/dining room is spacious, though the bedrooms are on the small side. The large concrete basement may scream "Beer Pong Tournament!" but more wholesome uses might be appreciated in this quiet neighborhood. There is a backyard with room for parking — the Metro is nearly a mile away. Contact: Anthony Evans, owner, 202-713-5844

JESSICA BYLANDER (FOR EXPRESS)

Clarendon

1BR W/ DEN: 2400 Clarendon Blvd., Apt. 603, Arlington

$2,250

This 760-square-foot one-bedroom with den has granite countertops and a washer/dryer in the unit, a gym and outdoor pool. Court House Metro is two blocks away, and bars and restaurants are walkable. The small bedroom has a walk-in closet with enough shelving for midlevel hoarding. The den is separated off by glass doors. Wall-to-wall carpeting is the only thing that feels dated. Contact: Andres Delgado (andresjdelgado.com), Keller Williams Realty, 202-431-3927

SUITSUPPLY

Fokke de Jong

SUITSUPPLY FOUNDER, TAILORING FAN

Two weeks ago, a corner of Georgetown looked like a convention of sleek, European dandies as Dutch-based men's tailoring company Suitsupply (2828 M St. NW; 202-800-7800) held a party to inaugurate its first D.C. store. The brand fuses high-end details (Italian fabrics, in-a-flash alterations on site) and hipster cred (cargo pants shown with sports coats, slim tuxedos) in its well-priced clothing. We caught up with founder/CEO Fokke de Jong about how buttoned-up doesn't have to equal boring.

This is only your third U.S. store after New York City and Chicago. Why was D.C. next?

D.C. was on the radar from the beginning. We were getting a lot of customers in the New York store from D.C. People who live here seem like a very fashion-informed kind of customer.

How is Suitsupply different from other, more old-school men's retailers?

We're about the tailoring, about giving customers a product that really fits. Plus, we have lots of well-informed staffers, so we're also educating customers.

How can you make a suit hip?

It's both tailoring and how you combine things. You could put a very formal jacket with rolled-up cargo pants and monk-strap shoes, or wear one of our slimmer double-breasted suits. They're like the epitaph of the old-fashioned kind of double-breasted suit, with a trimmer cut with a nice, sloped shoulder. Fashion is about reinventing stuff. If you do it well, you still have something elegant to wear.

What colors and fabrics should men be wearing this fall?

We like to use lots of blended fabrics — wool with silk, wool with cashmere. This makes garments drape well and it allows for really rich colors. Burnt orange is important this year, and so is green. Combined with grays, they're very nice.

"Fashion is about reinventing stuff. If you do it well, you still have something elegant to wear."

Your stores all have an on-site tailor sitting in prominent spots. Why?

Tailoring is at the center of our business. Clothes need to fit very well, and having someone in the stores to do the adjustments in 30 to 45 minutes makes it so much better.

Is there any fashion faux pas you see men committing?

If you're going to wear a pocket square, use it to break up a look. Don't wear a white shirt and a white pocket square. With ties, use a different pattern than your jacket — that's how you make a look lively and rich.

Men seem to be embracing fashion a bit more lately. Why do you think that is?

Maybe it's blogs and magazines, maybe it's a young, going-out thing. Or maybe it's because people are traveling more. The more you're around stylish people, the more you want to be one, too.

WANTED: LOGAN CIRCLE LOFT, ALL MOD CONS, WELL FURNISHED. Found: Long-time U Street furnishing den Urban Essentials, relocated to 14th Street (1401 14th St. NW; 202-299-0640), yet still full of contempo-cool home decor such as a Venti leather swivel chair (shown, $1,480), Robert Abbey's mod, round crystal Bling Chandelier ($995) and colorful shag rugs ($640) that seem to be made of silky spaghetti. It's all shown off in sleek space with huge windows and exposed brick — sort of like your dream pad.

Greenhouse Beautiful

IN OLD SOUTHERN FAMILIES, a hothouse flower is either an orchid too delicate to grow outside the solarium or a wiltingly lovely belle/great aunt who can't thrive in the wickedness of the real world. Ineke's new H Hothouse Flower perfume ($95, Ineke.com), however, proves a sexy, sultry whiff of fig, gardenia and Earl Grey tea more fit for a nightclub than a wicker club chair.

Good Bookin'

HATE ON E-READERS ALL you want, but the gadgets grant "50 Shades of Grey" fans literary anonymity. Fool onlookers further with Out of Print's new line of covers for your Kindle Fire or iPad 2 and 3 (from $50, pre-order at Outofprintclothing.com). Made by a bookbinder to resemble novels, the protective shell guards against everyday wear and tear while making you look brainy.

WHEN LORENZO Castellon and Jamie Lawenda traveled to Guatemala, the couple came back with more than a few corny T-shirts. Inspired by the country's vibrant weavings, they launched 2568 Shoes. Their latest style, the Venus loafer (shown, $79, 2568shoes.com), looks colorful and feels comfortable paired with jeans or tights. They run about a size small, so be sure to order up.

New Chip On the Block

THE OLIVE BRANCH is an international symbol for peace. It's also a major player in Olive Coast's new line of Mediterranean kettle cooked potato chips ($4, grocery stores). The snacks are made with natural olive oil and come in such flavors as Tuscan herb and garlic and Sicilian tomato and Asiago. They're Kosher and MSG-free, meaning your health and snacking habits can finally call a truce.

Dear Manolo

ANSWERS FROM THE SHOE BLOGGER

I have been invited to spend a weekend on a yacht off the coast of Florida with my boss, my boss' boss, a key client and their significant others. I am the most junior of the group at age 26. I'm looking for a Sperry-esque shoe that meets the rules of the boat (nonmarking soles, some grip), and will demonstrate that I am a serious professional, yet still celebrates my youth. —LU

Manolo says, thanks to the steady diet of popular entertainment, this sounds to the Manolo like the setup for either the sinister thriller, involving volcanic island lairs and jump-suited henchmen, or the slapstick comedy of errors in which our heroine must conceal that she has accidentally dropped the big-shot client's wife's obnoxious Chihuahua-poo over the side of the boat, thus endangering the important contract. And now, for the rest of the movie, she has to make up the increasingly elaborate excuses for the missing dog, while her wacky co-worker (and best friend) hides in the cabin making the yapping noises.

Of the course, if your imagination is set at the expert level, this is actually the setup for the sinister comedy action thriller of errors, in which the dog belongs to the evil supervillain who owns the super luxury yacht on which you are vacationing.

Here is the Angelfish from Sperry, the feminized, classic boat shoe in the platinum/gold metallic finish ($90, Zappos.com). If you feel this is too bold for Dr. Morbo's yacht, the Yersinia Pestis, it is available in 20 other finishes, including linen and oat.

Ask the Manolo a question at manolo@shoeblogs.com. Visit the Manolo at shoeblogs.com.

Inside Jokes

By Rudi Greenberg

5 comedies not to be missed

1 The Mindy Project (Sept. 25, 9:30 p.m., Fox) "The Office" favorite Mindy Kaling joins Zooey "New Girl" Deschanel for Fox's adorkable hour, playing an OB-GYN who lives life like it's a rom-com. Only her's doesn't yet have a happy ending.

2 The League (Oct. 11, 10:30 p.m., FX). The fantasy-football-themed comedy exists as an excuse for a group of ace comedic actors to do horrible things to one another, like shooting porn in one character's apartment while he was out of town.

3 Happy Endings (Oct. 23, 9 p.m., ABC) TV's sharpest comedy looks to add some actual plot developments this season, which means Brad will have to find a job, Dave and Alex will give love another try, and Penny might finally find a steady boyfriend.

4 Mash Up (Oct. 9, 12:30 a.m., Comedy Central) High-energy comedian T.J. Miller seeks to reinvent the stand-up showcase with this series, which mixes stand-up, sketch and "joke visualizations," whatever that means. Look for sets from Chris Hardwick, Hannibal Buress and Reggie Watts.

5 Community (NBC, Oct. 19, 8:30 p.m.) Moving to Fridays in a post-Dan Harmon world, "Community" looks to make good on its #sixseasonsandamovie campaign. New showrunners Moses Port and David Guarascio open with a "Hunger Games"-themed episode.

Trend Watching

The glut of channels clogging the airwaves seems impossibly diverse. So we ran the fall TV lineup through a sophisticated neural network (our addled brains) to find clumps of coherency in this fractured landscape. We discovered a few patterns, illuminated here. Our analysis captures but a fraction of autumn offerings. Want more? Sorry. RUDI GREENBERG, HOLLY J. MORRIS AND LORI McCUE (EXPRESS)

Political Animals

Leslie Knope is coming to Washington! While "Parks and Recreation" (Sept. 20, 9:30 p.m., NBC) is still set in the fictional Pawnee, Ind., season 5 will feature a D.C. detour, as Leslie (Amy Poehler, left) and Andy (Chris Pratt, right) visit their respective better halves, Ben and April, who are working on a congressional campaign. Speaking of campaigns, psychological thriller "Homeland" (Sept. 30, 10 p.m., Showtime) returns with suspected sleeper-cell operative Nicholas Brody eyeing a seat in Congress. Shonda Rhimes' mid-season surprise hit "Scandal" (Sept. 27, 10 p.m., ABC), which follows a D.C. crisis management team, takes place in a world where the president sleeps with women who are not his wife, which is so Clinton-era it hurts. And, of course, politics will be on the agenda for "Saturday Night Live" (Sept. 15, 11:30 p.m., NBC) as the presidential election hits its home stretch. R.G.

Sound of Music

Music sales and TV ratings are decreasing, yet music-centric TV shows are as popular as ever. The best is one most people haven't been watching. "Treme" (Sept. 20, 10 p.m., HBO) can be bleak — it IS a David "The Wire" Simon production — but the post-Katrina drama's best moments are the musical ones, courtesy of real New Orleans talent. That's Wendell Pierce as Antoine Batiste, above. "Nashville" (Oct. 10, 10 p.m., ABC) stars Connie Britton as a struggling country icon who tries to restart her career by opening for a youthful crossover star (Hayden Panettiere). "Glee" (Thu., 9 p.m., Fox) takes on NYC (with guest appearances by Sarah Jessica Parker and Kate Hudson) and a new McKinley class, while NBC's Broadway-set "Smash" is being held for a mid-season revamp. R.G.

■ New shows ■ Returning shows

Dearly Departing

Perhaps as an excuse to persuade Steve Carell to be Michael Scott one last time (or just a convenient way to set up the forthcoming Dwight Schrute spin-off), NBC will shut down Dunder Mifflin and "The Office" (Sept. 20, 9 p.m.) for good. "30 Rock" (Oct. 4, 8 p.m., NBC) wraps with a promising-sounding seventh season, with the debut of Bryan Cranston as Kenneth's dad and maybe, finally, a baby for Liz Lemon (Tina Fey, below). High-class melodrama "Gossip Girl" (Oct. 8, 9 p.m., CW) and sci-fi drama "Fringe" (Sept. 28, 9 p.m., Fox) also settle in for final seasons, which should prompt a crossover episode where the "Fringe" crew time-travels to New York City and prevents "Gossip Girl" from ever existing. R.G.

Scare Tactics

If the title of a show includes the words "horror" or "dead" or the number "666," you know you're in for an hour of family-friendly entertainment. Just kidding! Children should be nowhere near the TV set for "American Horror Story" (Oct. 17, 10 p.m., FX), "666 Park Avenue" (Sept. 30, 10 p.m., ABC) or "The Walking Dead" (Oct. 14, 9 p.m., AMC). "American Horror Story" takes place at an insane asylum (the events and characters from season 1 have no bearing on this season), which gives creator Ryan Murphy an excuse to bludgeon viewers with aliens, Bloody Face the serial killer and Adam Levine's attempts to act (example above). "666 Park Avenue" is about a Manhattan apartment building where residents move in but don't move out. Because 666 = evil. As for "The Walking Dead": A non-undead baddie and a chick with killer swordsmanship hop onboard the zombie deathfest train. R.G.

entertainment lookout*Bring the Noisy

Reality shows this season tend toward behind-the-scenes explorations of loud activities. In "Fast N' Loud" (Mon., 10 p.m., Discovery), dudes fix up old cars in Texas and auction them off. If "American Choppers" has a market, this must, too. In contrast, in "Texas Car Wars" (Thu., 10 p.m., Discovery, above), dudes buy old cars at auction and fix them up. "Cheer" (Fri., 10 p.m., CMT) centers on a competitive cheerleading team and the pressures its members face. "Broadway or Bust" (Sun., 8 p.m., PBS) targets the lucrative theater-nerd demographic with other theater nerds vying for National High School Musical Theater awards. Every week on "Hot Set" (Sept. 18, 10 p.m., Syfy), two teams of production designers build original movie sets. "Making Monsters" (Sept. 30, 8 p.m., Travel) looks at the animatronics industry. L.M.

Made in Elsewhere

"Downton Abbey" isn't back until January. Here are some consolation-prize programs in order of their "Downton Abbey"-ness: The "Upstairs, Downstairs" reboot (Oct. 7, 9 p.m., PBS) enters its second and final season; it remains as "Downton"-like as copyright law allows. Expect a spunky new maid and many evening gowns. "Call the Midwife" (Sept. 30, 8 p.m., PBS, below), is a drama we like to call "Birth-Control Abbey," because it takes place at a convent (both abbeys and convents house monks or nuns) and will make viewers never, ever want to give birth. "Bomb Girls" (Tue., 10 p.m., Reelz) is a Canadian show in which a fancypants socialite slums it at a World War II munitions factory. Shades of Lady Sybil? H.J.M.

Name & Name

X + & + Y = show title. It's so easy even a TV executive can do it! And did it, these eight times. A man and a woman become roommates in "Ben & Kate" (Sept. 25, 8:30 p.m., Fox) with no sexual tension. We hope, because they are brother and sister. "Mike & Molly" (Sept. 24, 9:30 p.m., CBS) consider homeownership and having children. "T.I. & Tiny: The Family Hustle" (Mon., 9 p.m., VH1, above) sees the rapper return to his wife and kids after serving time. "Giuliana & Bill" (Oct. 2., 8 p.m., Style) experience more baby-related trials 'n' triumphs. "Keyshia & Daniel: Family First" (Oct. 9., 10 p.m., BET) follows the R&B singer; her husband, nicknamed "Boobie"; and assorted family. "Tamar & Vince" (Sept. 20., 9 p.m., WEtv) stars Toni Braxton's sister Tamar. "Key & Peele" (Sept. 26, 10:30 p.m., Comedy Central) is a sketch show that needs a better title. "Rizzoli & Isles" (Nov. 27, 9 p.m., TNT) are a hot lady detective and a hot lady medical examiner, respectively. H.J.M.

Non-Traditional Parenting Situations

Utah does not support "The New Normal" (Tue., 9:30 p.m., NBC), even though the sitcom celebrates family (in this case, two would-be daddies; a single mom who's their surrogate; and a bigoted, single grandma). We do not support the producers' decision to cast "Real Housewives of Atlanta" nonactress Nene Leakes as a personal assistant. "Guys With Kids" (Sept. 26, 8:30 p.m., NBC) is exactly what it says on the tin. (Guys, with kids.) That it seemed natural to put a show about men trying to be responsible fathers under "Non-Traditional Parenting Situations" should definitely be the subject of an Atlantic Monthly article soon. On "Raising Hope" (Oct. 2, 8 p.m., Fox), single dad Jimmy (Lucas Neff, center) continues bringing up his daughter, Hope, with the help of his mom (Martha Plimpton, to left of Neff) and grandma (Cloris Leachman, far right). "The Neighbors," which our TV columnist advises against (see sidebar), boasts a family of aliens. shows to avoid at all costs

1 The Real Housewives of Miami (Sept. 13, 10 p.m., Bravo) How low can this franchise go? New cast member Lisa Hochstein has ginormous boobs, is married to a plastic surgeon known as "the boob God" and lives in a mansion "built by boobs."

2 The Mob Doctor (Sept. 17, 9 p.m., Fox) Lady doc agrees to serve the Mob to pay off her brother's "debt." The Mob tells her to kill a patient who's going to squeal. She says, "I never agreed to kill." They say, Yes you did! I say: I don't care!!

3 Revolution (Sept. 17, 10 p.m. NBC) A drama about Earth without electricity. You mean like D.C. in June? What's the plot? Food spoils and iPads can't be recharged?

4 The Neighbors (Sept. 26, 8:30 p.m., ABC) Man moves to suburbs with wife and kids, prays: "God, please make the neighbors normal." Only the neighbors are aliens in human guise who've adopted the names of sports stars like Dick Butkus; cry green tears from their ears; and toss dishes out the window. God, please make this stupid show go away!

5 Killer Karaoke (Oct. 19, 9 p.m., TruTV) Contestants attempt to sing while stepping into vats of maggots, icy water and eels. To quote Jimmy Kimmel: "End of human life as we know it."

'Chicken With Plums' embraces the light and darkness of love

Film

Marjane Satrapi has a way with difficult characters and difficult circumstances.

Her first book, the acclaimed 2000 graphic novel "Persepolis"—which she and co-director Vincent Paronnaud made into an animated film in 2007—chronicled her own tumultuous childhood and adolescence during the Islamic revolution in Iran. Her new, live-action film, "Chicken With Plums," also co-directed with Paronnaud, is based on her 2004 book of the same name. In it, we meet Nasser

Ali Khan (Mathieu Amalric), a distant uncle of Satrapi's and a gifted violinist living in late-'50s Tehran. He's mad at the world, hates his wife and gives opium-laced milk to his son to shut him up. And yet, he's the film's hero.

"I think being a nasty jerk should not be only the privilege of bad people," Satrapi says. "Human beings are complex. None of us are heroes and none of us are totally bad. This guy's just broken by life."

After Nasser's beloved instrument is destroyed, he falls into a depression. He ruminates on his decision to marry at the behest of his overbearing mother (Isabella Ros-

Backstory

Family History

"Chicken With Plums" is Part 2 of a trilogy of films that Satrapi planned to make tracing several generations of her family. A third story, "The Eleventh Laureate," chronicles the life of her grandmother. Satrapi, however, says this last installment won't first be a graphic novel; it will go straight to the screen. "The language of cinema and the language of books is not at all the same language," she says. "Intellectually, translating it is extremely annoying." S.M.

sellini) and pines for a lost love.

Nasser takes to his bed and decides to die. He considers a ridiculously grim series of suicide methods to slapstick effect, something Satrapi drew from her own life.

"I wanted to commit suicide many times, and every time I tried, I missed," she says. "Like the time I went to put the hair dryer in my bath, but the cord was too short. After you survive all that, it becomes very comic."

As Nasser declines, the set shrinks to the size of his dark bedroom and yet simultaneously expands into the magical realism of his dreams of his days with his first love, Irane (Golshifteh Farahani).

In these scenes, the film is full of color and whimsy, courtesy of hand-constructed paper cityscapes and CGI that give the film the feel of a pop-up book. Satrapi says this look was influenced by the work of American directors including Alfred Hitchcock and Douglas Sirk.

"It's a celebration of the cinema of the '50s, when they were not scared to draw these incredible skies that everybody knew didn't really exist," Satrapi says. "Reality has never interested me a lot. I like the truth, but reality sucks."

Don't Touch the Art

I was a fan of Pixar before I had a child whose devotion to "Cars" means I have seen Lightning McQueen more in the past four years than I have seen my youngest sister. (Hi, Maggie!) I think "The Incredibles" is, well, incredible, and "Ratatouille" is so good at examining the power of food that I can forgive it for having a name that requires spell-check. And I like "Finding Nemo," which is being rereleased in 3-D today.

What I do not like is this current obsession with taking perfectly good films and applying a technology that is not only unnecessary but actually detracts from the viewing experience.

3-D can be a powerful tool in the right filmmaker's hands. What 3-D is not is a Midas touch, adding visual richness to everything it touches. When a film shot in 2-D has 3-D retroactively added, the colors get dimmed and the image gets blurred (particularly in animation). So why even use it? Oh, right. Because what 3-D does do right, every time, is make ticket prices go up.

Watching a film as a family is wonderful; movies are the best gateway to thinking critically about art. Add in a theater, where kids have to learn to be quiet, not kick seats and revere Milk Duds as the ultimate movie candy, and you have something really special. But when a studio junks up a film just to get more of your money—well, buy your Duds at CVS and break out the DVD.

Breaking the Bank Genre

Richard Gere gives a strong performance in the Wall Street thriller 'Arbitrage'

Film Review

There are few cinematic pleasures as satisfying as to behold an actor in a role that fits him like a Savile Row suit. Richard Gere offers just such gratification in "Arbitrage," a silky, sophisticated Wall Street thriller that finds the actor utterly in his prime, wearing his age and accumulated wisdom with warmth, charisma and nonstop appeal.

That Gere's character, a hedge-fund billionaire named Robert Miller, finds such immediate and sustained traction with the audience is anything from a foregone conclusion. Miller — a high-flying magnate who turns out to be starkly different from the virtuous captain of industry he resembles — could have been the kind of amoral antihero that made Michael Douglas' Gordon Gekko so diverting in "Wall Street" and so grating in "Wall Street: Money Never Sleeps."

As "Arbitrage" opens, Miller is returning to New York from a meeting with a corporate titan named Mayfield, who is on the verge of buying one of Miller's businesses; it just happens to be Miller's 60th birthday, an event he celebrates with a family that includes a gorgeous wife (Susan Sarandon) and devoted daughter (Brit Marling). Miller's got it all. As it turns out, though, he has much more than he needs, a surfeit that will take "Arbitrage" from a high-gloss 1-percent escapism to an increasingly gnarly corporate-slash-crime thriller.

At times, the movie resembles one of those ripped-from-the-headlines episodes of "Law & Order." But while "Arbitrage's" canvas may be small, it manages to command a movie-scale sense of drama and glamour, largely thanks to Gere's commanding performance.

Striking Images of Our World

In 'Samsara,' natural beauty is contrasted with urban frenzy

Film Review

Twenty years ago, "Samsara" would have been a knockout. In fact, it was. Only then it was called "Baraka."

Director-editor-cinematographer Ron Fricke's 1992 cinematic world tour offered stunning 70mm images and — despite no dialogue or narration — something akin to a narrative. His follow-up looks equally great, but it's less lucid. It's also, inevitably, less surprising.

"Baraka" and "Samsara" both contrast images of natural beauty and urban frenzy. The movies (conceived with producer-editor Mark Magidson) shift among cosmic reverie, slightly trippy travel video and occasional bummers.

Like its predecessor, "Samsara"

"Samsara," from director Ron Fricke, features trippy visuals (like the image of 1,000 hands, above) and time-lapse photography.

Samsara (PG-13)

► Director: Ron Fricke

► In a Nutshell: Filmed over a period of five years in 25 countries on five continents and shot on 70mm film, this movie transports us to the varied worlds of sacred grounds, disaster zones and natural wonders.

spotlights many religious structures and rituals. It also observes teeming cities, dramatic landscapes and industrial operations (including factory farms) in 25 countries around the globe.

One of Fricke's specialties is time-lapse photography, so sometimes his world spins wildly. In fact, "Samsara" is Sanskrit for "wheel of life." Yet this movie has less locomotion than "Baraka."

One reason for the occasional doldrums is that Fricke's new movie revisits some of the same places.

"Samsara" finds the world a little less blessed than it was two decades ago, yet still beautiful, which seems to be the movie's primary message.

BACHELORETTE (R, 94 minutes) Unfortunately, "Bachelorette" has nowhere near the heart or humanity of the 2011 hit "Bridesmaids," despite cramming twice the crude humor into a much smaller package. It's a sour, only fitfully funny affair, wasting the abilities of its otherwise talented cast. Written and directed by Leslye Headland — who adapted her own play, written four years before the release of "Bridesmaids" — "Bachelorette" revolves around the nuptials of Becky. After announcing her engagement, Becky pretty much disappears for most of the rest of the movie, handing the story over to three of her friends. Behind Becky's back, they profess mystification that their friend, who was called "Pig Face" in high school, is the first of their clique to marry. Why the bride would want to spend any time at all with them is a mystery. M.O. THE BOURNE LEGACY (PG-13, 135 minutes) Surprise, surprise — "The Bourne Legacy" looks surprisingly good onscreen, precisely because it's so good on paper. Written and directed by Tony Gilroy, who penned all three Jason Bourne movies, "The Bourne Legacy" achieves its first order of business with intelligence and imaginative dexterity, building on the pre-existing story. For the most part, "The Bourne Legacy" takes place in an impressively recognizable world, where science, hands-free geopolitics and the modern security state intersect to create human warriors who behave like the human equivalent of drones. It's that world and its ruthless thought-leaders that Aaron Cross (Jeremy Renner) must navigate — with his memory intact, but driven by just as dramatic an inner need. A.H. DIYAH PERALIONSGATE are the comic equivalent of fish in a barrel, and every last minnow gets picked off in "The Campaign," in which Will Ferrell and Zach Galifianakis play North Carolina candidates going head-to-head in a farcically conniving congressional election. If only because of the actors involved, "The Campaign" has its share of laughs. The film even possesses a whiff of topicality, in the form of two super-wealthy, sweatshop-owning brothers who try to rig the election by infusing a super PAC with scads of money. But with the exception of that timely echo—and Ferrell's flawless John Edwards impersonation as a compulsively promiscuous politician—genuinely scathing satire is largely missing. A.H.

COMPLIANCE (R, 90 minutes) As the film opens, a fast-food restaurant manager named Sandra is getting her busy evening shift started. As her staff arrives, the emotional tectonics continue to shift. When Sandra receives a phone call about one of her workers, a pretty girl named Becky, she's all business, save for the pent-up resentments constantly at play between the two women. That phone call leads Sandra and Becky into an increasingly high-charged encounter, which ultimately will give way to even more troubling confrontations. With its pins-and-needles atmosphere of ambient hostility, economic anxiety and power shifts, "Compliance" can in many ways be seen as an unforgiving parable of our age, in which working-class disempowerment takes on the cruelest psychological and physical dimensions. A.H.

THE DARK KNIGHT RISES (PG-13, 164 minutes) Christopher Nolan has made a completely satisfying movie, one steeped enough in self-contained mythology to reward hard-core fans while giving less invested viewers a rousing, adroitly executed piece of popcorn entertainment. The film starts off with a nervy piece of midair showmanship in which the movie's villain, a terrorist thug named Bane, hijacks a CIA plane. Bane makes almost immediately for Gotham City, where Bruce Wayne (Christian Bale) has been living in wounded seclusion for the past eight years, since he took the rap for killing a city hero. "The Dark Knight Rises" ends on a self-important note that would be insufferable if Nolan and Bale hadn't so clearly earned it. A.H.

THE EXPENDABLES 2 (R, 102 minutes) Capping off summer with explosive action, "The Expendables 2" offers the send-off that adrenaline junkies are seeking before fall's more sedate releases. As he proved with the original, Sylvester Stallone grasps the action-oriented DNA of the films' badass cast of reprobate mercenaries (including Arnold Schwarzenegger, Bruce Willis and Dolph Lundgren) with an intuition derived from dozens of genre roles. Kay (Meryl Streep) and Arnold (Tommy Lee Jones) have been married for 31 years and, now, in their 60s, they sleep in separate bedrooms. In an effort to recharge the marriage, Kay arranges a visit to a famous therapist named Dr. Feld (Steve Carell). Most of the film transpires in Feld's office, as the clinician tries to get to the root of the couple's problems. "Hope Springs" is funny mostly thanks to Jones, who plays Arnold with a pitch-perfect dose of bemusement, discomfort and long-simmering rage. This is a movie fully aware that just showing up is often more important than even the most cathartic conversation. A.H. LAWLESS (R, 110 minutes) An inescapable sense of "so what?" sets in early with "Lawless," almost as soon as Shia LaBeouf begins his lackluster opening narration. In 1931, in Franklin County, Va., Jack Bondurant (LaBeouf) and his big brothers, Howard (Jason Clarke) and Forrest (Tom Hardy), divide their time between running the family's general store and a lucrative moonshine operation. It's a tidy living that is threatened by the arrival of Special Agent Charlie Rakes (Guy Pearce). "Lawless" feels less like it's breaking new ground than going through old motions. A movie about outlaws — whether indulging or interrogating their self-styled legend — should never play it this safe. A.H. THE ODD LIFE OF TIMOTHY GREEN (PG, 115 minutes) The title character of Disney's two-ply weeper, a mysterious 10-year-old boy who pops up in the backyard of a childless couple, is indeed odd. Covered with mud, he's also marked by a disturbing deformity: leaves sprouting from his lower legs. Odder still is this: The people whom Timothy almost immediately starts calling "Mom" and "Dad" react in pretty much the same way as someone who's just found a stray cat. They start raising him as their own. Never mind that Timothy, by all evidence, seems to have been wished into existence by his unofficial adoptive parents. The movie goes down easily enough. Still, anyone with an expectation of reality, or an aversion to mawkish melodrama, should probably stay home. M.O. PARANORMAN (PG, 93 minutes) "Para-Norman" is a spooky, creature-infested campfire story laced with valuable lessons about teamwork, responsibility, courage and the celebration of our inner outcast. That last trait is personified by Norman,

IT'S TIME TO TAKE A STAND.

RICHARD FOREMAN JR./THE WEINSTEIN COMPANY

Between the "Transformers" movies, the last "Indiana Jones" and "Lawless," Shia LaBeouf is always running away from things.

a quiet and unassuming middle-schooler who happens to be able to converse with the dead. For years, Norman's crazy uncle has kept a centuries-old curse cast by a disgruntled witch named Aggie at bay. But when his uncle mysteriously passes away, it's up to Norman, his perturbed older sister and his mild-mannered best friend to quell a zombie uprising and grant Aggie her final wish. SEAN O'CONNELL THE POSSESSION (PG-13, 92 minutes) "The Possession," a Jewish variant on "The Exorcist," recounts the torments of a nice suburban American family who's infiltrated by an evil spirit ("dybbuk" in Yiddish). Actually, the dybbuk is the second malevolent force to attack Clyde and Stephanie and their two daughters. First came the monster called divorce. Clyde dotes on 10-year-old Em and 13-ish Hannah whenever he has temporary custody. So he agrees to stop at a yard sale and doesn't argue when Em insists on buying a dark wooden box inscribed with Hebrew letters. Naturally, Em becomes possessed by the dybbuk that was locked inside the box. Anyone who believes in dybbuks and other ghouls will find "The Possession" terrifying. PREMIUM RUSH (PG-13, 91 minutes) Joseph Gordon-Levitt is Wilee, a Columbia Law School grad who opted for a life of adrenaline as a bicycle messenger. He sails across Manhattan on a fixed-gear bike with no brakes. At least he wears a helmet, which comes in handy on many occasions, including the scene that opens the film: Wilee flies through the air amid windshield shards after somersaulting over a cab. From there, the film rewinds, taking the audience back to how the young man landed in this situation. His boss at Security Courier gives him the task of picking up a package at Columbia. It's a rush delivery, and he has 90 minutes to fly down Broadway and hand it to a woman in Chinatown. It might not be a noteworthy film, but "Premium Rush" delivers what it promises. S.M. SLEEPWALK WITH ME WITH ME (90 minutes, Unrated) With warmth, unsparing self-awareness and that ineffable Everyman appeal sometimes called "relatability," Mike Birbiglia proves to be as engaging a presence on the screen as he has been all these years onstage and over the radio waves. "Sleepwalk With Me" opens with a disclaimer of sorts: Birbiglia, who plays the autobiographical protagonist Matt Pandamiglio, turns to the camera and explains that his story is true. What ensues is a series of flashbacks depicting the filmmaker's romance with college girlfriend Abby, a pivotal moment in both their relationship and his nascent comedy career, and the more-than-coincidental appearance of a sleep disorder that escalates to life-threatening seriousness. Funny stuff, but not really—a tonal jumble that Birbiglia pulls off with the assurance of a pro. In a film that combines vignette-like set pieces, fourth-wall-breaking riffs and often bizarre dream sequences, Birbiglia creates a world that's at once wildly imaginative and instantly recognizable. A.H. THE WORDS (PG-13, 96 minutes) "The Words" is a well-acted but narratively limp indie that's undermined by a failure to connect emotionally with its audience. It's a film that intentionally blurs the line between reality and fiction and, as a result, never creates real or fantasy worlds that are remotely believable. The central plot revolves around Rory Jansen, a writer who discovers an anonymous manuscript of a spectacular novel. Rory reads the manuscript, then decides to peck out the whole thing verbatim on his laptop just to know how it feels to have placed such brilliant sentences into a Word document. But then hot wifey reads it and thinks he has finally found his gift, and he's unable to confess he's actually not that gifted. The next thing everyone knows, a novel is published and turns Rory into not just a man of letters, but the Man of Letters. Of course, the actual author of that manuscript eventually tracks him down. He tells Rory the whole story of how that work of fiction came to be. JEN CHANEY

1 Ballpark Boss
In past years, a Bruce Springsteen concert would be the most exciting thing at Nationals Park in September (maybe even all year). But for the first time, the Nats have legitimate World Series hopes. As such, the E Street Band's first show at Nats Park is more like the epic, fist-pounding cherry atop an already awesome sundae. Nationals Park, 1500 S. 2 Be a Part Of History
The Battle of Harpers Ferry gets eclipsed by the fact that Antietam, the bloodiest day of the Civil War, followed it. But it was significant for the 12,000 Union soldiers who got captured there, as you'll learn at the sesquicentennial celebration through hikes, activities and living history programs. Harpers Ferry National Park, 171 Shoreline Drive, Harpers Ferry, W.Va.; through Sun., $5-$10; 304-535-6029, Nps.gov/hafe.

3 Banjo Power
Don't count out the banjo from your party. It's not always shrill-ly dueling, "Deliverance" style. It can soothe and it can rouse. It can even rock, as it does in the hands of Lissy Rosemont, who strums and sings for local favorites Junior League Band. Bluegrass has its own strong tradition in these parts, but Junior League lends it a rock edge that has broad appeal. Black Cat, 1811 14th St. NW; Fri., 9 p.m., $12; 202-667-7960, Blackcatdc.com. 'Boardwalk's' New Girl

Nucky is smitten with a Broadway babe as Season 3 premieres

Drama

SUN 9:00 For the first two seasons of "Boardwalk Empire," romance was elusive for Enoch "Nucky" Thompson.

He rules Atlantic City, N.J., as its city father, major-domo mobster and, with this HBO drama set in Prohibition days, its reigning bootlegger.

But never mind all that. Nucky (Steve Buscemi) wants love.

By now his overwrought mistress Lucy Danziger is history. His marriage to social climber Margaret Schroeder is over in every way but keeping up appearances.

How nice for Nucky that as Season 3 begins, he has lost his heart to Broadway chorine Billie Kent. And how nice, too, for viewers, who will surely fall for the actress who plays her, a budding It Girl named Meg Chambers Steedle.

Season 3 picks up the action on Dec. 31, 1922, as Nucky and Margaret host a rousing New Year's gala. The entertainment: famed Broadway star Eddie Cantor and his slinky song-and-dance sidekick, Billie, who perform the fanciful number "Old King Tut."

It's the viewers' first brush with Billie, but not the last. In the wee hours after the party, Nucky ditches Margaret to rejoin Billie, who, stripped to her drawers, awaits him in bed at his boardwalk suite.

"This is the only place I can truly rest my head," says Nucky, resting his head in her lap.

She smiles. Then she playfully warns, "You aren't resting NOW," before climbing astride him.

This is Nucky as we've never seen him: the power broker as a lovestruck swain.

"Billie is really a breath of fresh air for him," says Terence Winter, the series' creator. "She represents the whole idea of the youth culture that took over the 1920s — half bohemian, half adventurer and out to have a good time." FRAZIER MOORE (AP)

Best Bets

FRI 9:00

Primetime: What Would You Do? (ABC) Would you intervene if you witnessed bullying? An episode of racism? Those are some of the questions posed in this newsmagazine series, in which such scenarios are staged and people's reactions to them are caught on tape.

SAT 7:00

Aladdin and the Death Lamp! (SYFY) With a title like that, you know this isn't the Disney version of the story. In this cheese-tastic twist on the Arabian Nights tale, the hero must stop the genie — who's evil here — from wreaking havoc on everyone.

SUN 10:00

Eating Giants: Hippo (ANIMAL) The cycle of life is central to this special that begins by following the journey of a dying hippopotamus and shows the new life that's born out of death. Using expert analyses, it offers viewers a whole new perspective on the food chain.

SUN 10:00

Weeds (SHO) This marks the end of this quirky comedy series, which earned 21 Emmys, 10 Golden Globes and six SAG Awards over its eight-season run. Suburban mom-turned-drug-dealer Nancy Botwin (Mary-Louise Parker, left) and her cohorts make their final deal in the series finale. (TRIBUNE MEDIA)

Hello, Mr. President

"Saturday Night Live" (Sat., 11:30 p.m., NBC) has elected a new Barack Obama: Jay Pharoah, above, will take over the plum role of impersonating the president, which Fred Armisen held for four years. Jason Sudeikis will also remain with the show to play Obama's Republican opponent, Mitt Romney. Seth MacFarlane hosts the premiere with musical guest Frank Ocean. (AP)

“If Baltimore Orioles rookie Manny Machado is truly a shortstop stuck at third base, he’s certainly making it hard to tell.”

— MICHAEL KLOPMAN AT HUFFINGTONPOST.COM was impressed with the O’s rookie’s play in the field Wednesday night, including one play in which he faked a throw to first on a bunt and managed to get a runner at third in a rundown for an out in the ninth inning of an eventual Baltimore win.

“Solid analysis RT @tomscocca: The more I read liberal pundits denouncing the Chicago teachers’ strike, the better the strike sounds.”

— @MATTYGLESIA, the economics reporter for Slate.com, agrees with Scocca, the managing editor of Deadspin.com, about the situation unfolding with Chicago schools.

“The hottest trend at New York Fashion Week: CATS! This is by far the best outfit we saw.”

— BUZZFEED AT YOUTUBE.COM loves Jessica Mercedes, a stylist and blogger from Poland, and the all-cats shirt and leggings she wore this week in the Big Apple.

“If I had to choose a tumblr that most closely resembles my life it would be this one.”

— @KBOMB relates quite closely with the blog myfriendsaremarried.tumblr.com, which carries the subtitle “My friends are getting married, and I’m just 25 and drunk.”

“The renewing market district is definitely in the need of wayfinding signage — the challenge will be to get people from NoMA/ the subway station to the hip Union Market building.”

— RICHARD LAYMAN AT URBANPLACESANDSPACES.BLOGSPOT.COM thinks the new fresh food venue should make its presence known so people can reach it more easily via public transportation and on foot.

Horoscope

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're in no mood to see things continue the way they have been going; you can shake things up and still connect with others in a good way.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Someone who hasn't enjoyed the perks you've recently enjoyed is wanting to hitch his wagon to your star — why not let him?

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) You're not working at peak efficiency, and you know it — so be sure to give yourself enough time to get everything done.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) What you do for others will reflect well on you, of course — but what surprises you is what others will do for you in return.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You must accept certain facts today, or you're likely to butt heads with someone in charge. Don't take things personally at this time.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Take things one at a time today and you'll be able to make your way through a series of obstacles without being slowed down appreciably.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) You may be having a slight crisis of confidence — but working with a certain ally should enable you to recover very quickly.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your conscience may be getting in the way of your decision-making process at this time. This tells you that something should change.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This is a good day to watch others go about their business. Take the time to assess what you see.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Make no mistake: You'll have to work for your rewards at this time. Little will come to you as a matter of course; don't rest on your laurels.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Someone important to you will believe in you and support your efforts — though today, getting started may prove difficult.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Though you expected to enjoy the day's events and endeavors, something may taint things slightly. Don't be discouraged.

Samurai Sudoku

Fill in each column, row and 3x3 box with the digits 1 through 9 without repeating any. The twist in Samurai Sudoku is that the digits that appear in the overlapping boxes must work for both puzzles. A piece of advice to get you started: Don't focus on completing one grid at a time. Keep the whole puzzle in mind as you go, because filling in a number in one grid could give you clues to another.

Today in History

1814 Francis Scott Key pens what becomes "The Star-Spangled Banner" after witnessing how an American flag withstood a night of British bombardment during the War of 1812.

1901 President William McKinley dies in Buffalo, N.Y., of gunshot wounds inflicted by an assassin. Vice President Theodore Roosevelt succeeds him.

1982 Princess Grace of Monaco, formerly actress Grace Kelly, dies at age 52 of injuries from a car crash the day before.

Mila Kunis got stuck in a broken elevator in a Manhattan building with as many as 10 other people, the New York Post reported. "They were stuck in the elevator for 45 minutes and everyone ... remained calm," said an unnamed witness. Kunis is shooting the film "The Angriest Man in Brooklyn" in New York City. (EXPRESS)

PARENTINGThis Ruins Googling 'Bikini Babes' Forever

A British child-welfare organization is upset that Jessica Simpson showed "Katie" viewers a photo of her infant daughter wearing a bikini. "It is very disturbing to see a young baby presented to the world wearing a bikini," the group Kidscape told the Daily Mail. "We should not be compromising the sanctity of our children's early years." (EXPRESS)

"Shut up, Tim. I WANT to be dating someone no one takes pictures of."

NOT OFF THE HOOKSeal Still a Jerk

Heidi Klum told Katie Couric on Wednesday that she is dating her bodyguard, Martin Kirsten. When Couric, interviewing Klum on "Katie," asked whether the relationship was serious, Klum said, "I don't even know if I can call it that. I don't know." Seal, Klum's estranged husband, recently made comments about the then-rumored romance, saying Klum was "fornicating with the help." Kirsten has been Klum's bodyguard for the past four years, said Klum, who added, "He's cared for our entire family." (EXPRESS)

PARENTINGLove Redefined as ... 'Wait, How Many Orifices Does This Thing Have?'

Nick and Vanessa Lachey welcomed their first child, a son named Camden John, on Wednesday. He weighed 8 pounds, 9 ounces and measured 21 inches. In a statement, the couple said: "Love has truly been redefined for both of us." Last month, 38-year-old Nick Lachey reunited with his band, 98 Degrees. (AP)

Martha Stewart Living Omnimedia, the Home Shopping Network and Emeril Lagasse are involved in a lawsuit brought by the Chamber of Industry and Commerce in Wuppertal-Solingen-Remscheid, Germany. The lawsuit accuses the companies of using the Solingen name to sell cheap knives. Lagasse promotes the knives on HSN. (EXPRESS)

5 Cents Has Made A Difference!

More than 75% of District residents have reduced their use of disposable bags.

The funds generated by the 5 cent bag fee have allowed the District to:

Install trash traps to help clean the Anacostia River

Restore streams to a more natural state

Provide environmental education and incentive programs that support using raingardens, conservation landscapes, rain barrels, and green roofs
